Plans are afoot to put together another World Wide Regina Maris Reunion in 2015. Pacific Coast RM crew have been kicking around the idea ever since the summer of 2012 when a few of us got together for a mini-reunion at the Northwest School of Wooden Boatbuilding in Port Hadlock, WA.

The ad hoc Organizing Crew for the Regina Maris Reunion 2015 consist of:

- Darlene (Jackson) Marmol (RMcrew '79)
- Jill Likkel (RMcrew '76)
- Ken Balcomb (RMcrew '76-'82)
- Roger Callan (RMcrew '67-71')
- Steve Nelson (RMcrew '79-'80)

Darlene, Jill and Ken are all current natives to the Puget Sound area, so are the ideal local planners for the event. Roger will keep an eye on the needs of crew coming from foreign locations and I (Steve Nelson) will bring my experience helping with logistics for last year's reunion in Gloucester, MA.

Currently we are focused on locating the Northwest Reunion in Port Townsend, WA on a summer weekend between Labor Day (25 May 2015) and Memorial Day (7 Sept 2015) Factors that will affect the date choice, include meeting space availability, schooner/tall ship availability for a daysail, local festival conflicts, cinema availability, etc. Our local organizing crew are looking into things right now and we hope to have firm dates and location nailed down by early this summer.

In the next Jolly Boat we'll run a survey to see who is interested in attending so we can get a rough count on how many we might expect.

If you'd like to help out with planning the Regina Maris Pacific NW Reunion 2015, Drop the Organizing Crew an email at reginamaris1908@gmail.com

Home From Following The Whales

The 71-year-old barkentine Regina Maris, now plying Pacific waters as a research vessel, passed under the Golden Gate Bridge yesterday afternoon for a ten-day stay in the Bay Area. The 144-foot vessel, part of a fleet of 30 operated by Sausalito-based Ocean Voyages, is following the migration of whales and dolphins as part of a year-round research project.

Picture--Regina sails under the Golden Gate Bridge into San Francisco Bay in Oct 1979 after a summer of whale research in SE Alaska. (San Francisco Chronicle)

Regina was no stranger to the Pacific. She first entered the Pacific in 1967 under the command of Capt John Aa Wilson after going around Cape Horn and once again during Regina's circumnavigation in 1970. She then stayed in the Pacific for several years (1970 - 73) sailing the South Pacific out of LA under the ownership of Oceanwide Cruises. Her last voyage into the Pacific (1978-79) was under ORES ownership when she ventured westward through the Panama Canal, visiting Galapagos to the south and SE Alaska in the north and many points in between. Regina's transit eastward through the Panama Canal in December of '79 marked the end of her Pacific voyages.

Regina T-shirts Coming Soon (Honest)

Marc Orbach (RMcrew '76-'77) continues to work on getting replica Tshirts printed for us. We were shooting for announcing the pricing and ordering details in this April Jolly Boat, but it was not to be. Once a few technical challenges are overcome, we'll put out a special edition of the Jolly Boat just to communicate the ordering information.

In the mean time, here the info about the shirts that was included in the last Jolly Boat:

"Pictured above are an original (c. 1980) T-Shirt, and the scanned image from the original ink-on-mylar artwork . Through information provided by Ann Nichols (RMcrew '76-'84), Marc was able to trace down the original ORES-era design artwork at a T-Shirt shop in the Woods Hole, MA, area. Mark is working on setting up online ordering and fulfillment through www.Tspring.com. Ordering instructions will be announced here in the Jolly Boat newsletter and at the "Friends and Crew of the Regina Maris Facebook Group." "

Regina sails again as tattoo

Allesando Abate (RMcrew '78) is now sporting a tattoo of Regina under full sail. From the many photos that RM crew have shared at the 2013 reunion and online, Alex assembled just the right view for the tattoo artist. Better give way and let the old girl pass.

RM Spar Section Found in LA

Jerry Barlows (pictured with spar) was recently helping a friend sort through a lifetime of collected nautical artifacts when he came across a spar section with a brass plate crudely engraved with the words, "BOWSPRIT REGINA MARIS". Being a sailor himself and curious to discover the history of the spar, Jerry got online and discovered Sam Berliner's Regina Maris Page. Sam Posted the complete set of Barlow's pictures of there with comments by Barlows. Jerry also found us through the Regina Maris Reunion 2013 Facebook Page.

Looking at the pictures, Roger Callan (RMcrew '67-'71), Ary Pronk ('71-'73), and Henk Aherns (RMcrew '70-'72) have all weighed in with their thoughts on when/where the spar could have come off Regina in the LA area and whether the spar is an authentic artifact. (Tentative conclusion is that it is probably an authentic Regina Maris artifact that was replaced during a yard period in Southern California.) More discussion and research is underway--We'll keep you posted on developments in future Jolly Boat issues. Send a note to reginamaris1908@gmail.com if you'd like to participate in the research and discussion.

Darlene (Jackson) Marmol (RMcrew '79) has been in contact with Jerry Barlows about the spar and will be down in the LA area to look at it in a few months. Jerry has generously offered to donate the spar to our group, so Darlene will probably be transporting it up to her home in Washington State so it can be available to view at the 2015 reunion.

Jerry has joined us as a subscriber to the Jolly Boat with this issue.
